BRAINERD, MINN.

The name of mail-delivery is applied in Germany to a peculiar kind of mail prepared from the bark of the mulberry tree.

Yellow rubbers, to wear over russet shoes are the latest footwear fashions. The fashion originated in Chicago and has reached New York.

The woman who now offers a man a fifty-cent pair of beating carpets, fashions assured she has done her duty to the "unemployed," and they have hereto no reason to complain.

Robert Toombs' grandson Judge Dudley De Bose of the district court in Montana, is believed to be the youngest United States judge, and to have the largest judicial district in the world.

After General O. O. Howard retires from active service he will make his home at Burlington, Vt., where his son, Captain Guy Howard, U. S. A., is now engaged in building Fort Ethan Allen, the new cavalry post.

There was, after all some reason in the recent chrysanthemum craze. It has been shown that it can be cooked and served as a very satisfactory substitute for the plebeian cabbage.

The fifteenth birthday of King Umberto was not celebrated in Italy to any demonstrative extent outside of the king's household. The more birthdays King Umberto celebrates the worse of Italy.

To whistle on the street is a misdemeanor punishable by fine, in Berlin, yet the Kaiser's subjects could hardly choose a more modest and discreet way of expressing their surprise at his more or less sensational antics.

Aunt Mary Robinson was a familiar character in New York City, having kept an apple stand at the corner of Catharine and Madison streets for two generations. She died on Monday, in her 81st year.

Aristotle was a small man with a horse voice and thin legs. He was a great philosopher and a great man in company. He dressed magnificently, was fond of jewelry, and was so extravagant in his pleasures that he wasted his fortune on female favorites.

Milton's comparison of Satan with the rising sun, a passage found in the first book of "Paradise Lost," nearly occasioned the suppression of the poem. The comparison was supposed to contain a political and treasonable allusion.

The tragic fate of the bombthrower in Paris recently justified the remark of the police officer: "God's justice was done." The fact that he was blown to atoms by the sudden closing of a church door upon him will have an appalling significance to many minds, and tend to terrorize the terrorists.

Erasmus Wiman did not propose to Joan his hand without a bluff, anyhow. He is making preparations for one of the hardest fights of all his life—and he has had a lot of them—and the sympathies of the people generally are with him.

Corbett announces that his forthcoming fight with Jackson will be the last in which he will engage. And it ought to be. Indeed, his first fight ought to have been his last. He would have stood higher in the estimation of the community, indeed, if he had never lent himself to the brutal sport.

A Chicago clergyman on Sunday expressed his defense of the serpent that tempted Eve to her fall, holding that his act was a commendable one. Perhaps there is some truth in this, for without a knowledge of evil Chicago would have remained forever in the domain of the unknown.

A contemporary, rehearsing the possibilities of Premier Rosebery's choice of a poet for the vacant laurelship, says: "If he chooses one of his peers, his choice will be pretty nearly restricted to Lord Ronald Gower, who is almost the only living Irish-making lord." But why ignore Lord Dunsany?

Zella Nicolaus and her "protector," the Hon. Al. Ruhman, are reported to have quarreled in a Fort Wayne hotel and separated. The affair does not greatly concern the public, but the public must be confronted with all the details, nevertheless. A couple of very common people, they should be permitted to get their winding way unhindered and untroubled.

The perennial quarrel in base ball circles as to the right of clubs to engage certain players wanted by other clubs is in progress. Although the public doesn't care a rush for either the clubs or the players, the managers persist in deluging the newspapers with their opinions on the points in controversy. The opening of an office on will be welcomed if it gives the talkers something else to do. Play ball!

An Ohio court has decided that the tender of a twenty dollar bill in payment of a ninety cent railroad fare is not a legal tender, and that the railway employees were justified in ejecting the man who offered the payment. If this decision is sustained by the higher courts, all passengers will be required to offer the exact fare to conductors to run the risk of ejection. If the decision is in accordance with law, it is not in the line of common sense, and the sooner the law is changed the better. Railroads should have no pretensions in such matters that are not enjoyed by all business men and corporations.

There is comment on the fact that an attractive young woman is the clerk in a Western hotel, but women occupy such positions in many hotels in Europe. If men turn dress makers in this country, why should not women supersede the male hotel clerk? Of course the woman would be personally attractive; or, if not a Venus, a combination of Junonian dignity and Minervian prudence of character. It is not so hard to imagine strict discipline in an office where the clerk looked coquettishly on each "Fwont." And homely guests in such a hotel would, undoubtedly, be given inside rooms, or lodged just under the roof.

In the financial statement which was published in these columns a couple of weeks ago, an item appears in the poor fund for the burial of the late Stephen Bush. This is an error, as the expense of Mr. Bush's burial was paid from the soldier's and salvor's relief fund, which consists of money's appropriated by the legislature for just such purposes.
F. W. Dennis has moved his house-frame holding the wrapping paper rolls and as the paper is pulled out for use the cylinder with the rubber stamp attached revolves and prints

the advertisement on the paper at regular intervals. The little machine is very simple and can be attached to any paper frame.

As to Roads.
Editor of Dispatch:—I would like to say a few words in regard to our roads entering the city of Brainerd.
I see by the financial statement in your paper of the 16 inst., that the county commissioners had received pay for viewing the Pine River road.
I think it would give more satisfaction to the tax payers, of this part of the county, to have the money paid to them, and have him put in his time working on the road instead of riding over it in a buggy.
If there is a piece of road in this state that is a disgrace to a city or county it is the piece that lays along the fence on the south side of John Brookways farm, better known as "Hitt's farm."
And all the repairing it needs is a ditch made next to the fence, connected, by culverts, with the marsh along the lower side, and a little turnpike. Now this part of Cass Co. is attached to Crow Wing Co. against the wish of every tax payer in this part of the county. And it can be proved that this part of the county has its taxes paid up the best of any part, but we do not receive any benefit from the county; and all they want us for
is to vote their way at election time, after that we are supposed to "raise pumpkins" and keep quiet until the next election.
If you city folks don't do something besides calling us "gentlemen" upon election day we are liable to defeat
your expectations.

dent. The Northern Mill company's assignment will be settled without recourse to law. A law suit of large dimensions, two suits in fact, arising from the relations of the assigned company to the Gull River company, are about to be begun. Something like two-thirds of the total assets are involved, or an aggregate of about $750,000. This amount represents the assets of the Northern Mill company as security for the amount due the latter. It is claimed that this transfer was illegal, and that the assessment so involved belongs to the creditors. The Gull River company has made a sale of the Minneapolis mill to E. W. Backus & Co. and it is claimed that there was no right to sell this property. The Northern Trust company, under such claim, has applied for and been granted an order of the court to commence a suit for the recovery of the mill, and as other for recovery of the remainder of the transferred property. It is understood that these actions will not affect the sale to Backus & Co., as the Gull River company are bound to defend the title to the mill. The suits, if successful, will simply add the amounts recovered to the available assets of the assigned company, for the payment of their creditors.

Move Your Family West.
Some years ago a song with the above words for a refrain was very popular in this country. It was a companion to Horace Greeley's "Go west, young man." Now, however, that exhortation has lost its force, because, taking "West" as a synonym for wild and unsettled country, there is no West. Still, the American is a restless creature not yet rid of nomadic instinct inherited from his pioneer ancestors, and about this time of year many are considering a change of location. Though there is no longer much government land, nor any extensive region without cities and towns, there is as much room as ever for new-comers. Minnesota has millions of acres of forest and prairie yet unoccupied; Nebraska, where corn is king, offers splendid openings to the industrious farmer and the hustling business man; Wisconsin has many a good chance for the man who is wide awake; Missouri has a wealth of soil, timber and mineral for the persistent seeker; Colorado has treasures of silver and gold not yet discovered; Wyoming has room for flocks and herds innumerable; northern Kansas has an unsurpassed climate and a wide expanse of fertile lands; the Black Hills of South Dakota teem with mineral wealth; while the older states of Illinois and Iowa have given opportunities for both farmer and business man, though a little more capital is needed than in newer regions. If you think of moving you will certainly find what you want in some one of these ten states, and to all portions of them
the Burlington route is the best road for the immigrant, from whatever direction he may come. With terminals at Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Omaha, Denver,
Cheyenne, Deadwood, Minneapolis
and St. Paul, it offers the traveller, starting from either east, west, north or south, a direct, speedy, safe and comfortable route to his destination in any state of those named. For

"Can you let me have $5 today, Belleville?"
"Well, Bloomfield, I'm a little afraid to let you have any of the $5 bills I have now. They have all been in circulation quite a while and are not as clean as when they left the cash factory. Doctors and scientists say that bank notes are regular breeding grounds for microbes. I'd hate to be the means of loading you up with bacteria, you know, and giving you a job lot of diseases. When I get a brand new $5 bill, I'll let you know."

Florence Five-year-old was talking

what does a burglar want of a lost bracelet?"—Detroit Free Press.
Vegetables have direct effect upon the human system and often combine rare curative powers. Spinach affords relief in kidney troubles, and the common dandelion, used as greens, is excellent for the same thing. Asparagus purges the blood.
Celery acts primarily upon the nervous system and is a cure for rheumatism and neuralgia. Tomatoes act upon the liver.
Beets and turnips are excellent appetizers. Lettuce and cucumbers are cooling in their effects upon the system. Onions, garlic, leeks, olives and shallots, all of which are similar, possess medicinal virtues of a marked character, stimulating the circulatory system, and the consequent increase in the saliva and gastric juice promote digestion.
Red onions are an excellent diuretic, and the white ones are recommended to be eaten raw as a remedy for insomnia. A soup made from onions is regarded by the French as an excellent restorative in weakness of the digestive organs.—Philadelphia Press.

The Citizens' Fire Association has been represented here this week by Chas. G. Strale. The gentleman is endeavoring to place this city in the list of towns embraced in the association, the object of which is to secure reliable records of fires in the different towns and cities in order to work a reduction in the rates charged.
It has been decided to hold union gospel meetings in this city commencing about April 25th. The announcement is the result of a conference held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Monday between representatives of the different church organizations of the city. It is expected that C. W. Hunt, an evangelist of note, will conduct the meetings, which will be held in some suitable hall, a committee having been appointed to attend to the arrangements.
The northern convocation of the Episcopal church will meet in this city next week, commencing Tuesday evening and closing Thursday. Bishop Gilbert will preach at the opening service Tuesday evening. On Wednesday and Thursday the Holy Communion will be celebrated at 9 a. m., and the morning and afternoon sessions will be occupied with the discussion of practical questions on church and parish life. At the evening services addresses will be delivered by visiting clergymen. About a dozen of the clergy of the northern part of the state are expected to be present. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend all the meetings of the convocation.

Among those who went to Minneapolis on Wednesday to hear Wm. McKinley speak were A. T. Kimball, A. J. Halstead, A. F. Ferris, J. R. Smith, S. H. Parker, Jas. McMurry, R. H. Paine, J. C. Congdon, J. M. Johnson, D. M. Clark, J. F. McGinnis, Wm. Beane, W. E. Campbell, F. S. Parker, F. J. Smith, J. J. Howe, W. A. Fleming, J. R. Jones, L. W. Chase, H. J. Spencer, M. J. Reilly, John Congdon, Jr., Chas. Mitchell, George Smith and N. H. Ingersoll. The Brainerd delegation was taken care of in the best possible manner. Judge Fleming went down on Monday and secured seats for the entire party. Many people were in Minneapolis who did not get in to the exposition building to hear the speech, and thousands were turned away. The people outside of St. Paul and Minneapolis were better provided for than those living in the two cities.

As to Roads.
Editor of Dispatch:—I would like to say a few words in regard to our roads entering the city of Brainerd. I see by the financial statement in your paper of the 16 inst. that the county commissioners had received pay for viewing the Pine River road. I think it would give more satisfaction to the tax payers, of this part of the county, to have the money paid to some man, and have him put in his time working on the road instead of riding over it in a buggy.
If there is a piece of road in this state that is a disgrace to a city or county it is the piece that lays along the fence on the south side of John Bruggs farm, better known as "Hitt's farm".
And all the repairing it needs is a ditch made next to the fence, connected by culverts, with the marsh upon the lower side, and a little turpentine. Now this part of Crow Wing Co. is attached to Crow Wing Co. against the wish of every tax payer in this part of the county. And it can be proved that this part of the county has its taxes paid up the best of any part, but we do not receive any benefit from the county; and all they want us for is to vote their way at election time, after that we are supposed to "raise punkins" and keep quiet until the next election.
If you city folks don't do something besides calling us "gentlemen" upon election day we are liable to defeat your expectations.

Will Not Affect the Sale.
The Pioneer Press says Ex-Gov. McGill and party returned Friday from the trip to Brainerd, where they went to look over the property of the Northern Mill company, lately assigned to the Northern Trust company, of which Mr. McGill is president. The Northern Mill company's assignment will be settled without recourse to law. A law suit of large dimensions, two suits in fact, arising from the relations of the assigned company to the Gull River company, are about to be begun. Something like two-thirds of the total assets are involved, or an aggregate of about $750,000. This amount represents the assets of the Northern Mill company as security for the amount due the latter. It is claimed that this transfer was illegal, and that the assets so involved belong to the whole creditors. The Gull River company has made a sale of the Minneapolis mill to E. W. Backus & Co. and it is claimed that there was no right to sell this property. The Northern Trust company, under such claim, has applied for and been granted an order of the court to commence a suit for the recovery of the mill, and another for recovery of the remainder of the transferred property. It is understood that these actions will not affect the sale to Backus & Co., as the Gull River company are bound to defend the title to the mill. The suits, if successful, will simply add the amounts recovered to the available assets of the assigned company, for the payment of their creditors.

Morality of the Queensberry Rules.
There is a higher justification of boxing than the mere consideration of its utility. I hold that a thorough course of training with the gloves is in itself a moral education. Of all forms of physical exercise this is the one best calculated to promote muscle and morality at the same time.
It sharpens up, to a degree that no other exercise can, all those virile qualities which are at the foundation of all the virtues. Never forget that virility and virtue go hand in hand. Says John Boyle O'Reilly, "There is character as well as strength in muscle."
To men who have studied boxing at the ringside and who have personally endured the somewhat rigorous discipline of "getting into condition" for a friendly but earnest sparring contest—there are, fortunately, a large and increasing number of such men in all our American cities, and that is where they are most needed—it will not seem an exaggeration to say that the reading of no books in the English language can possibly teach certain primary moral lessons so speedily and so impressively as the study of a place among the great precept makers of mankind—to rank with Lycurgus, Plato, Socrates and Solomon and the other men whose minds served as mints for the coinage of maxims and proverbs that have passed into the common currency of wisdom and goodness.—Donahoe's Magazine.

Petroleum For War Vessels.
The time has come for a new departure in fuel. Petroleum oil ought to be used. It is perhaps more expensive than coal, but an ironclad can carry with oil 10 or 12 days and where she could with coal carry only four or five days' fuel. Moreover, the use of petroleum would enable our war vessels to replenish their supply of fuel at sea, a thing impossible with coal, from the difficulty of carrying enough to last the voyage. Oceans have been made to be fought by so-called battleships. They cannot go far from their base for want of fuel endurance. These battleships will be fought by ocean cruisers, which, if carrying a powerful gun besides quick firing guns, will give a good account of many so-called battleships, such as those of the Camperdown and Indefatigable type.—Philadelphia Ledger.
A Soliloquist Friend.
"Can you let me have $5 today, Bellefield?"
"Well, Bloomfield, I'm a little afraid to let you have any of the $5 bills I have now. They have all been in circulation quite a while and are not as clean as when they left the cash factory. Doctors and scientists say that bank notes are regular breeding grounds for microbes. I'd hate to be the means of loading you up with bacteria, you know, and giving you a job lot of diseases. When I get a brand new $5 bill, I'll let you know."
—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.
Very True.
Florence Five-year-old was talking about the burglars and expressing her indifference to their depredations.
"They can't get my bracelet anyhow," she said.
"Why not?" asked her mother.
"Cause it's lost," she replied, "and what does a buggular want of a lost bracelet?"—Detroit Free Press.
Vegetables have direct effect upon the human system and often combine rare curative powers. Spinach affords relief in kidney troubles, and the common dandelion, used as greens, is excellent for the same thing. Asparagus purges the blood. Celery acts admirably upon the nervous system and is a cure for rheumatism and neuralgia. Tomatoes act upon the liver.
Beets and turnips are excellent appetizers. Lettuce and cucumbers are cooling in their effects upon the system. Onions, garlic, leeks, olives and shallots, all of which are similar, possess medicinal virtues of a marked character, stimulating the circulatory system, and the consequent increase in salivary and gastric juice promotes digestion.
Red onions are an excellent diuretic, and the white ones are recommended to be eaten raw as a remedy for insomnia. A soup made from onions is regarded by the French as an excellent restorative in weakness of the digestive organs.—Philadelphia Press.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Handles the Porcops Easily.

Among the successful exhibits of dentistry at the world's fair was one sent here by Dr. Carrie Wolfenbuck, the only female practitioner graduate of the New York College of Dentistry. Her office is at 454 Lexington avenue, where she may be found every afternoon had at work for the pretty young tooth doctor has a lucrative practice. She is a plump little woman, with blue eyes and a abundance of brown hair and a rose-fair complexion. Most of her patients are men and she prefers them to women of her own sex. "They are," she says, "much nicer to deal with" than women and she prefers them to women of her own sex. to the hind leg. Calves under 50 lbs. should not be shipped, and are liable to be condemned by the health officers, being unfit for food. Merchants, too, are liable to be fined, if found selling such stinks, for the health of the public. Very heavy calves, such as have been fed on buttermilk, never sell well, they are neither well nor beef.

Ready for a Preliminary Dose.

The business man was sitting in his office thinking, of starting for home, when a suspicious looking person came in with a satchel on his hand.

"If you don't give me $5,000," said the visitor, coming at once to the point, "I will drop this on the floor."

The business man was cool.

"What is it?"

"Dynamite," was the brief reply. "What will it do if you drop it?"

"Blow you up."

"Drive me the instant command," "My wife told me when I left this morning to be sure and send up a load of dynamite, and I forgot it. I guess I will take just about as much dynamite as you've got there to prepare me for the blowing up I'll get when she sees me."

The business man was calm. He threw himself back in the chair and waited for the explosion, but it did not come.

"I'm a married man myself," said the dynamiter, and quietly slipped out—Detroit Free Press.

Novel Thought Not Pretty.

When a desire for novelty takes a firm hold of any woman her taste and judgment take flight, says the New York World. Here is a novel, a French one, and one worn by a Parisian actress. The bodice is of gray broadcloth, closely braided with gold and black. The skirt is of a similar material and the back of the plain. But it is in the skirt that ugliness reaches its climax. A piece of the braided cloth is stretched across the hips, curving from a depth of twenty inches in front to ten in the back. It clings tightly to the body, and is fastened by two large buttons, and from it falls a deep ruffle of the plain cloth which forms the rest of the skirt.

Sailing Vessels Still Make Money.

That there is still profit in sailing crafts is shown by the fact that the Dover Navigation Company, a New Hampshire corporation, has ordered three-masted schooners, at its annual meeting recently held, declared dividends of $100,000, the largest of its largest vessels. These dividends represented a year's earnings and on the earnings of its six vessels, which, after six months of sailing, are stuck in the mud on the Louisiana shore at $5 per cent dividend was paid. A well known fact, that, for the last twenty years, old, has already netted $200,000 for her owners.—New York Tribune.

Shoes for Springtime.

A woman who has seen the whole of the world of light dress and is a proponent, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. The foxing at the back extends tapering to the top of the shoe and at the front is simply a patch of leather. The top is of plain light-colored cloth, with going to match it in color. This is in imitation of the light-colored cloth, with going to match it in color. This is in imitation of the light-colored cloth, with going to match it in color.

The Lady Lecturer.

One of the latest and most popular developments of society is the lady lecturer, who talks to an exclusive male audience upon the topics of the day. These "talks," as they are called, are held only in private drawing rooms, and are listened to with the most intelligent interest by a score or more of ladies, who have clubbed together to form a society for the purpose of listening to the lectures. It is a charming way to acquire knowledge, and one which will undoubtedly grow more and more popular among those who either have not time or the inclination to study for themselves.

Those Sensational Newspapers.

Those sensational newspapers, which are listed to the credit of the public, are in order to keep the works running during the dull times.

Mr. Reader—Yes, I notice that, but I don't believe in them.

"Why not?"

"I told Bridget about it, and asked her to lend me some money to pay her wages, and she got as mad as a horse."

—New York Weekly.

An Exception.

Teacher—Johnny Millsap, I am astonished to hear you say, "Them is!" Don't you know "them is" is ungrammatical, unsmooth and barbarous?

Johnny Millsap—"Tain't always, ma'am."

Teacher—What do you mean by that?

"Can you name an instance in which it is correct and grammatical?"

Yes, ma'am. "Them's the boys."—Chicago Tribune.

Ought to Know.

You've had twenty-five years' experience as a farmer? Well, it's pretty hard work isn't it?

"I thought it till I came to town once to run a grocery store. I was in the grocery business six months. I'm back to the farm again. Farming ain't work. It's restin'."

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion, or prostration, another from indigestion, or constipation, and this way they all present, alike to themselves and their eager going and indifferent, or even busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, sending them to be such, when in reality there are all one symptoms caused by some one disease.

person for you, who will make Gertrude, your friend, and I will give you as air," Warrington added, coolly taking his handkerchief as he spoke, and dived into his pocket for a handkerchief.

Sir Basil was meditating, his chin supported on his palm, his eyes fixed on the floor.

"Lure the girl off, my friend, and leave me to arrange a mock marriage, which will serve to hush her womanly scruples, and preserve to you your precious liberty. Come—what do you say to my proposal?"

"To be sure," said the creole very blandly.

And then the constables departed. This affair, which had awakened the interest of the whole city, was over.

"No accident has happened to him, I hope," pursued the baronet, in a more confident manner than at first.

"There has been a messenger here, I think, but I have not seen him," said Roger, looking at the clock.

"There has not been home all night, and his mother, Mrs. Baldric, is greatly alarmed at his absence," said Sir Basil.

PLACED IN A DUNGEON.

PRENDERGAST MAKES AN ATTACK UPON HIS DEATH WATCH.

He Attempts to Jamb the Eyes Out of the Guard, but He Quits Down After Remaining in a Dungeon a Few Hours.

Chicago, March 28.—Prendergast attempted to punch the eyes out of Charles Johnson, his "death watch," to-day. He used a broom stick and struck Johnson in the face, and the guard, who was left eye, Jailer Morris ordered Prendergast removed to the dungeon.

Prendergast refused to leave his cell, and was taken out forcibly by Guard Johnson and another attendant. He resisted and shouted defiance to the jailers and guards, but was finally taken to the dungeon, where he was kept four hours.

The trouble arose because Johnson compelled the prisoner to sit down when he was attempting to get a glass of water. Prendergast was wrathful, and his rage broke loose after he and Johnson had left the court room.

"I pulled it out of his hand, then he was in the court room that day you took hold of me," he cried.

"I know my constitutional rights," insisted the assassin, growing excited, "and I demand them."

"Well, you are getting them, are you not?" queried the guard.

"Then I'll let you fellows around here who would be glad to see me get the worst of it. You are one of them."

At this point Prendergast seized the broom, and pushing the handle through the bars, he took hold of Johnson's face with the point of the handle.

With all the strength which he could muster, he pressed the handle against the face of the guard, who was taken by surprise.

The first punch of the broom handle struck Johnson on the left temple near the eye. Had the blow been received in the eye the sight would have been destroyed.

Johnson, who was very angry when he returned to his cell.

FISH FIGHT FOR A GIRL.

Mosher Colpetzer Hosts Fishing Gard.

Omaha, March 28.—Two youths about twenty years of age, one Mosher Colpetzer, son of Frank Colpetzer, the Milwaukee lumberman, and the other Irving Gardner, son of the dean of the Trinity Episcopal cathedral, indulged in a fish and chicken fight in the city of Omaha.

A certain young lady a couple of nights ago. The young men had been intimate friends until the last week of the month.

The fight was a very rough one. The two youths were very angry when they fell out.

Colpetzer was followed by a challenge to fight with him. He refused to do so.

Thursday afternoon Messrs. Davenport, Britton and Smith arrived at Grand Rapids in a wagon loaded with supplies and provisions, bound for Rainy Lake City. After sojourning in town until Tuesday they pulled out for the new Eldorado.—Grand Rapids Magnet.

In the financial statement which was published in these columns a couple of weeks ago, an item appears in the poor fund for the burial of the late Stephen Bush. This is an error, as the expense of Mr. Bush's burial was paid from the soldier's and sailor's relief fund, which consists of money's appropriated by the legislature for just such purposes.

F. W. Dennis has moved his household goods to Brainerd and went up to-day to get things in shape. The family will move next week, but Mr. Dennis will work in Little Falls until something better turns up. His reason for moving is that here he has to rent a house while at Brainerd he owns one that is unoccupied.—Transcript.

D. M. Clark & Co. have leased the two vacant rooms on the ground floor in the Columbian block and will remove from their present quarters about May 1st. Some improvements in the arrangements of things will be made to accommodate the large stock of furniture and hardware, an elevator will be put in and when they are located in their new quarters the firm will have the finest store in the Northwest.

C. H. Paine, of this city, has secured a patent on a contrivance for printing wrapping paper as it is taken from the roll and the invention will in all probability come into general use when it is introduced in the market. The machine is placed upon the frame holding the wrapping paper rolls and as the paper is pulled out for use the cylinder with the rubber stamp attached revolves and prints the advertisement on the paper at regular intervals. The little machine is very simple and can be attached to any paper frame.

The Citizen's Fire Association has been represented here this week by Chas. G. Strale. The gentleman is endeavoring to place this in the list of towns embraced in the association, the object of which is to secure reliable records of fires in the different towns and cities in order to work a reduction in the rates charged.

It has been decided to hold union gospel meetings in this city commencing about April 25th. The announcement is the result of a conference held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Monday between representatives of the different church organizations of the city. It is expected that C. W. Hunt, an evangelist of note, will conduct the meetings, which will be held in some suitable hall, a committee having been appointed to attend to the arrangements.

The northern convocation of the Episcopal church will meet in this city next week, commencing Tuesday evening and closing Thursday. Bishop Gilbert will preach at the opening service Tuesday evening. On Wednesday and Thursday the Holy Communion will be celebrated at 9 a. m., and the morning and afternoon sessions will be occupied with the discussion of practical questions on church and parish life. At the evening services addresses will be delivered by visiting clergymen. About a dozen of the clergy of the northern part of the state are expected to be present. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend all the meetings of the convocation.

Among those who went to Minneapolis on Wednesday to hear Wm. McKinley speak were A. T. Kimball, A. J. Halstead, A. F. Ferris, J. R. Smith, S. H. Parker, Jas. McMurtry, R. H. Paine, J. C. Congdon, J. M. Johnson, D. M. Clark, J. F. McGinnis, Wm. Beane, W. E. Campbell, F. S. Parker, F. J. Smith, J. J. Howe, W. A. Fleming, J. R. Jones, L. W. Chase, H. J. Spencer, M. J. Reilly, John Congdon, Jr., Chas. Mitchell, George Smith and N. H. Ingersoll. The Brainerd delegation was taken care of in the best possible manner. Judge Fleming went down on Monday and secured seats for the entire party. Many people were in Minneapolis who did not get in to the exposition building to hear the speech, and thousands were turned away. The people outside of St. Paul and Minneapolis were better provided for than those living in the two cities.

As to Roads.

Editor of Dispatch:—I would like to say a few words in regard to our roadentering the city of Brainerd.

I see by the financial statement in your paper of the 16 inst, that the county commission had received pay for viewing the Pine River road. I think it would give more satisfaction to the tax payers, of this part of the county, to have the money paid to some man, and have him put in his time working on the road instead of riding over it in a buggy.

If there is a piece of road in this state that is a disgrace to a city or county it is the piece that lays along the fence on the south side of John Brockway farm, better known as "Hitt's farm."

And all the repairing it needs is a ditch made next to the fence, connected, by culverts, with the marsh upon the lower side, and a little turpicking. Now this part of Cass Co. was attached to Crow Wing Co. against the wish of every tax payer in this part of the county. And it can be proved that this part of the county has its taxes paid up the best of any part, but we do not receive any benefit from the county; and all they want us for is to vote their way at election time, after that we are supposed to "raise punkins" and keep quiet until the next election.

If you city folks don't do something besides calling us "gentlemen" upon election day we are liable to defeat your expectations.

Will Not Affect the Sale.

The Pioneer Press says Ex-Gov. McGill and party returned Friday from the trip to Brainerd, where they went to look over the property of the Northern Mill company, lately assigned to the Northern Trust company, of which Mr. McGill is president. The Northern Mill company's assignment will be settled without recourse to law. A law suit of large dimensions, two suits in fact, arising from the relations of the assigned company to the Gull River company, are about to be begun. Something like two-thirds of the total assets are involved, or an aggregate of about $750,000. This amount represents the assets of the Northern Mill company as security for the amount due the latter. It is claimed that this transfer was illegal, and that the assets so involved belong to the whole creditors. The Gull River company has made a sale of the Minneapolis mill to E. W. Backus & Co. and it is claimed that there was no right to sell this property. The Northern Trust company, under such claim, has applied for and been granted an order of the court to commence a suit for the recovery of the mill, and as other for recovery of the remainder of the transferred property. It is understood that these actions will not affect the sale to Backus & Co., as the Gull River company are bound to defend the title to the mill. The suits, if successful, will simply add the amounts recovered to the available assets of the assigned company, for the payment of their creditors.

Move Your Family West.

Some years ago a song with the above words for a refrain was very popular in this country. It was a companion to Horace Greeley's "Go west, young man." Now, however, that exhortation has lost its force, because, taking "West" as a synonym for wild and unsettled country, there is no West. Still, the American is a restless and not yet rid of his pioneer instincts inherited from his pioneer ancestors, and about this time of year many are considering a change of location. Though there is no longer much government land, nor any extensive region without cities and towns, there is as much room as ever for new-comers. Minnesota has millions of acres of forest and prairie yet unoccupied; Nebraska, where corn is king, offers splendid openings to the industrious farmer and the hustling business man; Wisconsin has many a good chance for the man who is wide awake; Missouri has a wealth of soil, timber and mineral for the persistent seeker; Colorado has treasures of silver and gold not yet discovered; Wyoming has room for flocks and herds innumerable; northern Kansas has an unsurpassed climate and a wide expanse of fertile lands; the Black Hills of South Dakota teem with mineral wealth; while the older states of Illinois and Iowa have golden opportunities for both farmer and business man, though a little more capital is needed than in newer regions. If you think of moving you will certainly find what you want in some one of these states, and to all portions of them the Burlington route is the best road for the immigrant, from whatever direction he may come. With terminals at Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Omaha, Denver, Cheyenne, Deadwood, Minneapolis and St. Paul, it offers the traveller, starting from either east, west, north or south a direct, speedy, safe and comfortable route to his destination in any state of those named. For tickets, maps and information apply to any agent of the Burlington or connecting lines, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Mortality of the Queensberry Rules.

There is a higher justification of boxing than the mere consideration of its utility. I hold that a thorough course of training with the gloves is in itself a moral education. Of all forms of physical exercise this is the one best calculated to promote muscle and morality at the same time.

It sharpens up, to a degree that no other exercise can, all those virile qualities which are at the foundation of all the virtues. Never forget that virility and virtue go hand in hand.

Says Doyle O'Reilly, "There is character as well as strength in muscle."

To men who have studied boxing at the ringside and who have personally endured the somewhat rigorous discipline of "getting into condition" for a friendly but earnest sparring contest—there are, fortunately, a large and increasing number of such men in all our American cities, and that is where they are most needed—it will not seem an exaggeration to say that the reading of no books in the English language can possibly teach certain primary moral lessons so speedily and so impressively as the two or three months of severe training required to fit a man for that experience.

The rules that govern the boxing ring are in themselves a tolerably complete moral code. The Marquis of Queensberry, properly understood, is entitled to a place among the great precept makers of mankind—to rank with Lycurgus, Plato, Socrates and Solomon and the other men whose minds served as molds for the coinage of maxims and proverbs that have passed into the common currency of wisdom and goodness.—Donahoe's Magazine.
